

Aquaculture Systems Specialist

Poseidon Ocean Systems is recruiting for an Aquaculture Systems Specialist to lead our service and project initiatives for the aquaculture industry.

We are a customer-focused aquaculture support company that delivers equipment and services across the industry. We are currently a leading supplier of aquaculture pens, water quality management systems, moorings and custom engineering services in Canada, and we are expanding rapidly. Poseidon is looking to significantly expand our technical services capabilities, and we are seeking an individual capable of taking on this leadership role within the company.

The Aquaculture Systems Specialist will take the lead in expanding the range of services we provide to the industry, and will also play a critical role on our product development teams to help guide our development initiatives. We are seeking an individual with extensive finfish aquaculture experience to complement our existing team.

The ideal candidate will be a self-starter with a proven track record of undertaking and executing challenging new projects, and applying creativity in solving problems. You'll be comfortable with change and able to identify new opportunities to provide value to our customers. Above all, the successful candidate will be willing to contribute to the success of the company in any way necessary, regardless of role or title.

Responsibilities

- Design of mechanical systems and/or components
- Manage projects from quoting to final installation and signoff
- Oversee commissioning and installation of systems in the field or field settings
- Participate in the full development cycle: business case, analysis, design, development, implementation

Skills and Experience

- 10 year's experience in finfish aquaculture (freshwater and marine)
- Project management and/or project coordination experience
- Extensive experience with marine aquaculture operations
- Hands-on experience with all aspects of marine finfish farm setup and operations
- Valid driver's license
- Excellent communication skills
- Ability to work with personnel from a wide range of industries and backgrounds
